

POTTERY FROM PAJARITO FOR THE MUSEUM

Historical Society Secures Possession of Four Benches Used in Ancient Hostelry during Early Days of New Mexico.

The Museum of American Archaeology is today in receipt of a large shipment of ancient pottery from the New Mexico Normal University at Las Vegas. This is the first collection made from the ruins of Pajarito Plateau by Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, when president of the Normal University.

The expeditions sent out by that institution from 1899 to 1902 brought this rich archaeological field to the attention of the government of the United States and led to official investigations and reports to Congress which resulted in securing legislation for the preservation of American antiquities, drew the attention of the Archaeological Institute of America to Santa Fe as a center for archaeological research and doubtless vitally influenced the location here of the School of American Archaeology. By a friendly arrangement, between the regents of the Museum and the Normal University, an exchange of material is made, which gives the latter equally valuable collections for their use and places the classic Pajaritan collection in the Museum of New Mexico.

The Smithsonian Institution has generously returned the Pajaritan collection sent there by Dr. Hewett years ago, and a special room is now being repaired in the Museum in which will be shown the development of the entire archaeological movement here up to the present time. It will be known as the Pajarito room.

The Museum of New Mexico today acquired the four remaining benches from the office of the ancient Fonda, which marked the end of the Santa Fe trail. The benches are absolutely authenticated by the old timers of Santa Fe, their date being in the early fifties. It has not yet been ascertained whether they were made in Santa Fe or freighted across the Plains from St. Louis. The management of the Museum will be grateful for any information that can be offered concerning them. The many historic events centering about the Old Fonda, make these venerable objects of great interest and it is fortunate that they can be preserved to the future state in this manner.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Kansas as a Summer Resort

The Hutchinson News has an editorial on "Kansas, a Summer Resort," in which the editor speaks of needing a blanket these July nights. But bless you have you forgotten the nights of only a few weeks ago, when you fanned and fanned until the wee, sma' hours of morning, trying your best to go to sleep? And before you really got to sleep, you found out that daylight had already broken? No, no summer in Kansas for us. Just come and try a sample of our summer weather and you'll never peep again about the fine Kansas weather.

Rio Grande will be boundary

El Paso, Tex., July 27.—The Chamizal arbitration dispute will be settled speedily and satisfactorily by the state departments of the two countries, and the boundary will remain at the Rio Grande. This was the message which R. F. Burges, associate counsel in the Chamizal hearing, brought back from Washington. When asked exactly how the internationally famous case will be settled, Mr. Burges said he did not know, but said he had assurance that it would be finally settled through diplomatic channels at an early date, and upon terms that will be agreeable to both parties in the dispute. Mr. Burges has been visiting in Hot Springs, Va., since he visited Washington on official business connected with the Chamizal case.

Rev. B. F. Stimmers came down from Santa Fe last night, to visit his homestead southeast of town.

Mrs. Dr. F. B. Romero left on last night's train, after a visit with her sister, Mrs. R. J. Taylor south of town.

Backs Down on Tunnel Wedding

Fort Collins, Colo., July 26.—After traveling from New York to Colorado to be married in the Laramie-Poudre tunnel, 5000 feet under ground, and for so doing to receive a gift of $1000, Miss Della Stevenson, of New York city, took one look into the dark tunnel chasm, yesterday, and promptly decided that she preferred her ceremony to be in Denver. She gave up the right to claim the $1000 offered by the tunnel company to the couple who would be married in the tunnel as a feature of the celebration yesterday on the completion of the work.

J. B. Alexandria to whom Miss Stevenson was to be married in the tunnel and later did marry in Denver, is an electrician in the employ of the tunnel company.

Fire at Silver City

Silver City, N. M., July 26.—Fire broke out in the basement of the two-story Porterfield business block on the corner of Broadway and Bullard streets, yesterday, and for a time the destruction of this and adjoining business houses was threatened. The fire department worked vigorously to put out the fire and soon had it under control. The entire stock of the Howell Drug company was either destroyed by fire or badly damaged by water, and the building was considerably injured, the total loss being in the neighborhood of $15,000.

Small damage was also sustained by occupants of offices on the second story.

Willard Fair September 19

At a meeting of the Commercial Club on last Tuesday night it was voted to change the date of the Water Carnival from Sept. 21, 22 and 23rd to Sept. 19, and from three days to one day only. It was thought best to have only one day, thereby making one good day and at which time there will be something doing every minute in the day. There will be racing, contests, ball game and a big dance at night.

The different committees are urged to get busy at once, and see that the program is carried out in detail.—Willard Record.

J. B. Gunter came in yesterday from Silver City, where he was a member of the graduating class of this year. He will spend several weeks on his homestead southwest of town. He will have charge of the San Marcial schools the coming term.

Union will Take Hand

Albuquerque, N. M., July 26.—The rescue department of the Young Women's Christian association of this city has taken charge of Mary Salazar, the 16 year old girl who yesterday figured in the case brought against John H. Fulghum by Morgan Hardin. They will endeavor to find her a position as a domestic in the city. Hardin is a boarder at the Robinson ranch owned by Fulghum east of Albuquerque. Following a quarrel with the latter he brought a charge against him of harboring the girl for evil purposes.

Evidence brought out the fact that the girl had been taken by Fulghum from the home of Mrs. Krop, where she was earning her keep as a domestic, and given a home at the Robinson ranch. She had been promised pay when she became more proficient at house work. The girl is supposed to have borne a bad reputation, and is considered a victim of circumstances and her father's neglect. Her mother is dead and she has not seen her father for five years. She complained repeatedly of ill treatment by Mrs. Krop, said Fulghum, and when he employed her it was to get her away from the evil surroundings of her home. Fulghum is a middle-aged man. He was formerly a cowman and later a watchman for the Santa Fe railroad.

The News family has invitation to three dinners on next Sunday, and may need help, if we try to take them all in. We might possibly manage two, if the hours are arranged suitably, but three Sunday dinners with Estancia Valley Farmers is a little too much for us.

CLUB JOINS N. M. PUBLICITY ASSOCIATION

Commercial Club Adopts Bylaws and Plans Active Publicity Campaign

The Estancia Valley Commercial Club met at the Bank last night and took up the report of the committee on By-laws. After a number of amendments had been made, the by-laws were adopted, the name of the club being decided upon as above. It was decided that the Club affiliate with the New Mexico Publicity Association, and work in connection with that organization and along successful lines as adopted by it. It was the unanimous opinion of those present that the membership fee necessary for such affiliation would prove money well spent in advertising the valley and getting in touch with those from the states looking toward and interested in New Mexico.

The matter of sending a delegation from the Club to Mountainair to attend the Chautauqua on Resources day, August 5, was discussed, and it was decided to send a full delegation. Each member will be labeled so that no mistake can be made as to where our people hail from.

The executive committee was empowered to name various committees to carry on the work of the club successfully and expeditiously.

Revs. J. Q. Herrin and W. C. Grant came in last night from Stanley where they have been conducting a protracted meeting.

C. J. Dawe, representing the Morey Grocer Co., passed through Estancia last night and will return today to interview our merchants.

Wm. Sutton unloaded his steam threshing outfit yesterday, and will at once get busy threshing the golden grain for the farmers of the valley.

Rev. R. P. Pope, missionary of the American Baptist Society, will preach at Silverton next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to be present.

Hon. John T. Burns, of Colorado Springs, executive secretary of the International Dry Farming congress, and a man who knows, will lecture at the Mountainair Chautauqua August 5 on the subject, "Opportunity and Dry Farming in New Mexico." This is a vital subject and every farmer in New Mexico should hear this lecture. Farming by brawn alone is a thing of the past, and the successful tiller of the soil in these days of hot competition must use his brain as well or lose out in the race.
